Hello Customer,

Thank you for placing an order with Corex and Megara.

Please find together with this letter three important pieces of information;

1. Your product 'keyline'.

The 'keyline' is a digital file of the flat design that you have approved, and the product that you have ordered. We supply you with the 'keyline' so that you can place your art (graphic design) onto the product in the way that you want it to look.

We require you to provide your artwork on the keyline provided. Corex and Megara do not design art work, however, if you do not have a graphic designer to assist you with this process, please email your account manager or hello@corex.com.au. We can take a graphic design brief from you, and outsource this process.

2. Artwork specifications.

Information on art preparation, printing, file delivery, and approval process. Please read this information carefully prior to placing your artwork on the supplied keyline.

When you supply your artwork to us, we check it for production compatibility only. We do not alter your graphic design or check copy etc.

3. Recycling information for your products end of life.

Corflute® and PROMEG® sheet is made on site and is 100% recyclable at Corex Recycling. We use all the material sent back to us for new products made at Corex Plastics and Megara.

We would like to encourage you to use our new logo lockup on your Corflute® product. The purpose of printing the logo on your product is to help people identify the material, where it comes from, and how to recycle it.

We can also add the logo for you if you require design assistance.

High-resolution PDF, AI and EPS files can be found here >

Please contact your account manager or hello@corex.com.au if you have any questions.

Sincerely yours,

Zita Watkin, Marketing and Communications Manager
